

Last year's divers want to go back to

Dive the Graveyard of the Atlantic

You don't have to fly around the world to dive WWI and II wrecks. Also, no 17 hour flights, passports or Customs! Join the ADT Team and see for yourself!

Dive North Carolina for only $1395* June 3-10, 2006

Package includes airfare, 7 nights lodging, airport transfers, and four 2-tank boat dives, Nitrox, continental breakfasts and BBQ. Not a better deal around.

$500 deposit due December 1, 2005. Balance due in February 2006.

Bring log book and make available to the Dive Center

Bring C Cards – No c-card, no diving

Must be Nitrox certified. Nitrox fills included. O2 and HE extra

Airfare portion may vary due to market prices

Deposit for airfare is not refundable once airfare is purchased.

Cancellation requires 90-day advance notice for refund (excluding airfare).

All dives sites subject to weather and sea conditions.

non-diver rate available

You'll stay in the "Dive Lodge" just across the street from the Dive Center and Dive Boats. The Lodge offers "bunkhouse" style sleeping accommodations. Motel accommodations are available for extra fees. The BBQ offers special seafood delicacies if the lobster dive is successful. Get my drift!

Dive in the clear, warm waters of the Gulf Stream. The coast of North Carolina offers some of the best scuba and wreck diving in the US. Whether you are interested in sight-seeing, underwater photography, maritime or military history, technical diving or enhancement of current skills, Cape Lookout is the place to be. The abundant marine life and numerous shipwrecks of this region offer something for everyone. Over 30 war wrecks, 1900s to 1940 - many natural wrecks from storms or a result from war bombings, and Artificial Reef Program. This trip offers you the chance to obtain your wreck cert and maybe even an overhead environment – wreck penetration cert.

Special guest aboard the boat is Mike DeCamp, among the first to dive the Andrea Doria and make her available to divers.

Want to hear more...

Visit the USS Indra. This landing craft repair ship was sunk in 1992 as part of the Artificial Reef Program. She is 328 ft long and built in 1945. She served in WWII, based in FL and CA, later off China and Vietnam. This intact ship sits in 30-60 fsw and is easy to navigate. Last time, divers found a gear assembly. She's home to barracuda, amberjacks, toadfish, and lobster.

A bit farther out is the Papoose. This WWII tanker sank in 1942, torpedoed by U-124. She's 412 feet and lies in 120 feet of water. This large wreck sits on the bottom intact but upside down due to adjustments by storms. Her flat keel rises to 85 feet from the surface. The Papoose can be penetrated at several points – diver beware. She is home to the Atlantic sand tiger shark, stingrays and amberjacks. The sand tigers offer great photo opportunities along with fascination.

Visit the U-352. This German Submarine is unquestionably the most popular wreck dive. In 1942 she attacked the US Coast Guard Cutter Icarus. Her torpedo exploded prematurely, which revealed her presence and led to her demise. Thirteen German sailors lost their lives in the battle and remain in the wreck today. The sub lies in 115 fsw upright, listing 40 degrees to starboard. While most of the outer hull has rusted away, the hull remains intact. Penetration dives are met with a silt-filled, tight interior. Last year, divers found a German radioman headset. What a find!

Dive the Naeco. About 35 miles off shore, the Naeco is in two sections resting 2.5 miles apart in 140 fsw. The stern is the pristine section to dive. Many hull plates have collapsed outward exposing the engine. Forward of the engine offers many brass tees, elbows and valves. And salvaging items to share with others is permitted. Amazing is the marine life, swimming with sand sharks, pairs of queen angelfish and lionfish! Yes, like in the South Pacific. We'll plan to visit the Naeco.

Don't miss this great opportunity. Join us for the fun!

For more info on these and other wrecks, visit: www.nc-wreckdiving.com

Weather, viz and more:

Water temps are in the low 70s with about 40' to 60' viz.

5mm wetsuits are the norm. Drysuits are fine too.

Air temps are in the low 70s with some humidity.

Take something for motion sickness as the boat rides are 1-2 hours to and from the dive sites.

All the great tropical fish and pelagics.

Your snacks are welcome aboard the dive boat.

After diving explore the historic town of Morehead City, NC. Visit Atlantic Beach for fine restaurants or its amusement park. Tour Fort Macon, slip back to the Civil War. Explore the beautiful beaches or visit Cape Lookout Lighthouse. The non-diver will enjoy the NC Aquarium. The Maritime Museum has something for everyone!

Rodale's Scuba Diving Magazine rates this area as #1 for wreck diving and overall value for 10 years running.

This is a terrific trip. Don't miss it. Reserve your space early.

Advanced Diving Technologies
625 California Ave, Ste F
Pittsburg, CA 94565
925-432-2111